11 U.S. Vessels Damaged, 111 Jap Planes Shot Down

17,000 PLANES TO BE DROPPED UNDER CUTBACK

200,000 Workers Slated To Be Taken From Plants By Close Of Year

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26 — The army has cut off a big chunk of its aircraft production program.

It announced a cutback order Friday which will stop production of about 17,000 planes scheduled for the next 18 months.

Among other effects the re-trenchment will:

- 1.—Take perhaps 200,000 workers from aircraft plants in a dozen or so cities by the close of the year.
- 2.—Release substantial quantities of steel and aluminum for civilian use.
- 3.—End production of the new B-32 bomber, not yet reported in combat, while heavy emphasis is placed for the next few months on increased output of the B-29 (super-Fortress).

Reasons Given For Move

The army air forces last night said the reasons for the cutback are:

Curtailement of lend-lease operations under which thousands of aircraft went to allies in the European war; different tactical and strategic requirements for the one-front war against Japan; with Germany's Luftwaffe knocked out, the United States lost less planes in the closing phases of the battle of Europe, planes which now may be used against Japan.

The A.A.F. said production, on the basis of airframe weight (the weight of the plane, without engines, etc.) during the second half of this year will be 70 per cent of the total produced in the first half. In the first half of next year it will drop to 60 per cent and then fall to 55 per cent.

Layoffs To Be Tapered

War manpower commission officials said about 200,000 workers may be off aircraft plant pay rolls by the beginning of 1946. Since the cutbacks are graduated, layoffs will be tapered correspondingly, without any sudden impact, they explained.

Government production experts made a rough estimate that more than four billion dollars was represented in aircraft cutbacks since V-E Day.

The A.A.F. cited the B-29 and B-32 as an example of how it intends to streamline its aircraft requirements for the war with Japan. Production of the Boeing super-Fortress will increase for several months, then level off, but still greater increases scheduled for late this year will not be carried through.

Production of the Consolidated B-32 will end this year.

The B-32 is the second of two "very heavy bombardment" planes put into production by the United States. It is reported to compare in size with the B-29.

Another of the 16 types of planes affected by the revised schedule is the latest fighter, the P-50 jet-propelled Comet. Production of this ultramodern fighter will continue at unchanged levels in Lockheed's Burbank (Calif.) plant.

12 KILLED, 51 INJURED IN ARSENAL EXPLOSION

By The Associated Press. EDGEWOOD, Md., May 26 — Twelve persons killed and 51 injured, four critically, is the toll today of an explosion and fire at historic Edgewood arsenal. It was the first major accident there since the start of the war.

A special army board of inquiry is investigating the blast, which rocked the station, headquarters of the army's chemical warfare service, shortly after 3 p. m. Friday. It occurred in a building filled with civilian workers assembling and loading 5-pound incendiary hand grenades.

Only eight of the dead badly burned by phosphorous, have been identified.

House Ballots On Tariff Bill; Issue In Doubt

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26 — The house met today in an unusual Saturday session to vote on the controversial tariff bill, with the Democratic leadership conceding the outcome is in doubt. The fierce Republican opposition was aided by the absence of many Democrats from Washington.

Telegrams were sent to the absentees urging them to hurry back. So worried is the party leadership, arrangements were made for two Democrats—Reps. Sabath of Illinois and Cochran of Missouri—to come from the navy hospital, where they have been ill, to vote.

The issue pivots about a proposal by the late President Roosevelt, and supported by President Truman, to give the chief executive broad new powers to trim tariff-making.

KILN HANDS BACK AT PLANTS HERE

Knowles And T.S.&T. Shops Resume Full Schedules

Kiln hands were back on their jobs today at the Edwin M. Knowles China Co. in Newell and the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. plant in Chester, ending a four-day production stoppage at the Knowles plant and a two-day interruption at T. S. & T.

Men at both plants returned this morning, carrying into effect a settlement announced Friday by James M. Duffy, president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, which represents the kilnmen.

The resumption was based on a promise of the regional war labor board office in Cleveland, of an early hearing on issues involved in a month-old wage controversy at two potteries in Sebring.

The Sebring controversy had led indirectly to the local stoppages.

Workers At Sebring Fail To Report On Jobs

Special To The Review. SEBRING, May 26 — Workers at the Limoges China Co. and French-Saxon China Co. potteries here, crippled since April 30 by a wage dispute, failed to return to their jobs today despite a promise of the war labor board office in Cleveland of an early hearing of their grievances.

The WLB, which issued an order Thursday for the workers to go back, had agreed Friday with officials of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, representing the employees, to give the local case early attention in exchange for immediate resumption of work.

Salem Pottery Plant Slowed As Kilnmen Quit

Special To The Review. SALEM, May 26 — The Salem China Co. here operated at reduced rates today after 16 kiln placers failed to report on the "noon trick" Friday.

The stoppage followed dismissal by the company of three kiln placers who had come here from Sebring, where two potteries have been partially idle in a wage controversy.

Floyd W. McKee, president of the company, said the issue is "whether we can be forced to give."

SUICIDE ARMEN ARE LANDED ON OKINAWA BASES

Fierce 18-Hour Duel Rages Between Fleet Units And Attacking Nipponese

By LEIF ERICKSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, May 26—A strong Japanese air fleet, including the strangest suicide attackers of the war, damaged 11 light units of the Pacific fleet Thursday night and early Friday at a cost of 111 Nipponese aircraft destroyed in a blistering, 18-hour Okinawa battle.

The Japanese made their first attempt to land planes loaded with grenade-armed "giretsu" troops for suicide assaults on parked aircraft installations.

A few of these suicide volunteers set some U. S. planes afire before they were cut down at the Yontan airfield, near the original invasion beaches.

Few casualties were suffered on the 11 damaged American ships. It was reported from Okinawa. A dispatch said each craft shot down from one to four attacking planes before and after they were hit. One vessel was hit amidships and, surprisingly no one was killed. Five were wounded.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported this heaviest counterblow in weeks today as marines drove tanks through the mined streets of Naha, Okinawa's shattered capital, and artillery pounded the half-encircled fortress city of Shuri. Mud and rain hampered operations.

U. S. Casualties Hit 35,116

Adm. Nimitz announced over-all American casualties of 35,116, including 9,602 dead, for the army, marine corps and navy since the Okinawa campaign began March 18. Japanese dead in ground actions alone were listed nine days ago at 48,102.

Destruction of 111 Japanese planes in the fiery aerial engagement at Okinawa brought to 4,247 the enemy aircraft wiped out to date in the Ryukyu invasion. This includes 518 destroyed by super-Fortresses.

The Japanese made the fantastic attempt to land grenade-armed troops on the Yontan airfield during low-level strafing and suicide attacks.

Five twin-engine planes attempted to make belly landings on the Yontan airstrip, but four were destroyed in the air. The fifth came down and members of the new giretsu unit of the kamikaze special attack corps tumbled out.

Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland said "eight or more men rushed from the plane in the moonlight, setting fire to parked planes with bombs and hand grenades."

CHURCHILL PICKS HIS NEW CABINET

'Fiery Baptism' Looms For 'Caretaker' Government

By The Associated Press. LONDON, May 26 — The new government of Prime Minister Winston Churchill will face parliament for the first time Tuesday in what one political commentator said today "will be the fiercest baptism of any administration for a long time."

The Times of London lent support to the view that the "caretaker government," named Friday night to serve until Britain's general elections July 5, is also Mr. Churchill's choice for his permanent administration, should the Conservative party retain its majority at the polls.

Praising the cabinet as a "carefully-balanced team" the Times said its members, when they appear before the house, will "ask for a mandate to press on the Japanese war to its conclusion."

Mr. Churchill who retained Anthony Eden as foreign secretary, chose mainly members of his own party to replace the 30 Labor and Liberal ministers leaving the government. Cabinet members without definite party affiliations who were retained include Sir James Grigg, secretary of war.

Summing up the conflicting reaction to the government, the political correspondent of the British Press Association commented: "In fact the caretaker government."

British Toss Himmler Into Unmarked Grave; No Service Conducted

By The Associated Press. LUENEBERG, Germany, May 26 — The body of Heinrich Himmler, wrapped in a gray British army blanket, was carried by truck into a woods near here today and dumped into a grave spaded out by three British Tommies.

For two days the body had been left on the floor of a Luenenberg villa, where the Gestapo chief ended his life with poison while undergoing examination after his arrest by British authorities.

A senior intelligence officer of the British Second army said he had been told to dispose of the body of the body of the Nazi Gestapo chief.

A major and three sergeants carried out the unceremonious burial. A soldier, who witnessed the removal, said the sergeants took Himmler's body by head and feet, carried it behind the house where he died and dumped it into a one-ton truck alongside three spades.

The body had not been embalmed and was clad only in a British army shirt and the army blanket he chose to drape about him when his own clothing was taken away after his arrest.

The Himmler grave in the woods, a patch of pines, was not marked, for the Allies do not want the Germans to remove the body or mark the spot with some monument later.

Some efforts were made to obtain a pine coffin of the type used by the Germans to bury victims of the notorious Belsen concentration camp, but none could be found.

"Let the worm go to the worms," a Tommy said.

'PEACE-KEEPING' FORCES MAPPED

Conferees Also Draft Plans For Regulated Arms Cut

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER Associated Press Staff Writer SAN FRANCISCO, May 26 — The probability of a United Nations arms conference following close on the defeat of Japan emerged today from the plans for future world security now being put into final shape here.

These plans provide both for the maintenance of land, sea and air forces large enough to safeguard peace and for the regulated reduction of armaments to relieve the victorious nations of this year of the heavy burden they have carried for the last several years.

Committee actions in the United Nations conference to date indicate, substantial agreement among the 49 nations represented here on these twin objectives.

About the only controversy remaining in the conference is between the small and great nations over the authority to be exercised in the projected world security council by the big powers.

The "Big Four" are due to reach agreement on these points.

Key Business Area, Palaces Engulfed In B-29-Started Fires

Enemy's Radio Admits That Capital Virtually Has Been Laid Waste; 70-Mile-An-Hour Gale Fans Flames; Many Small War Industries Are Wiped Out

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 26—Nineteen of the super-Fortresses making the latest attack on Tokyo were lost over the target, the 20th air force reported today. This was the heaviest loss for any B-29 mission up to now, 12 having gone down in a previous attack on the enemy capital.

By The Associated Press.

Tokyo almost has been burned off the face of the earth, Japanese broadcasts reported today as the city fought gale-fanned flames started by an incendiary raid of 500 super-Forts.

The new attack, announced Friday by Washington was the second fire bomb scourge on the heart of the Nipponese empire in 48 hours.

The 4,000-ton raid centered on Tokyo's main business districts—the most "indestructible" part of the enemy capital—but engulfed at least two of the city's numerous palaces. The imperial family was reported unharmed, although fires came so close returning airmen said they may have "scorched the emperor's hair."

Unprecedented Tokyo broadcasts described the latest two-and-a-half-hour B-29 raid as the "biggest event on Japan proper" and said it touched off a "conflagration that virtually laid waste what was once the world's third largest metropolis."

Japanese propagandists said flames, spread by a 70-mile-an-hour gale, destroyed the Omiya detached palace, residence of the empress dowager, and the outer palace in the imperial palace compound. The imperial palace, residence of Emperor Hirohito in the inner compound, was reported both destroyed and unharmed. Premier Kantaro Suzuki called an emergency cabinet meeting preparatory to apologizing to the emperor.

Business Districts, War Industries Razed

More important was the razing of the business districts and many small war industries stretching across Tokyo from the water front. A Japanese imperial communique claimed 47 planes were shot down by antiaircraft and interceptors, which included rocket-propelled and piloted bombs. Twelve B-29's were announced lost in the 560-plane raid Thursday. The 21st bomber command was silent regarding possible losses Friday.

Stung by the strike into the very nerve center of the empire, Radio Tokyo diverged from a later recital of damages to declare the "enemy's inhuman atrocities" have increased the Japanese "feeling of hostility and (they) are determined firmly to fight to the last Japanese."

In succeeding broadcasts, the Japanese themselves developed a controversy as to whether the imperial palace was burned. Premier Suzuki reported to the cabinet, according to a Domei news agency dispatch, he had watched the fire start and that the imperial palace itself had been destroyed.

The statement seemed to be corroborated by a Tokyo radio commentator, who said the "imperial palace" the focal point of the Japanese people's foremost affection and undying loyalty, was destroyed for the most part.

Diet Building Believed Hit

Another commentator, however, observed the "imperial sanctuary, symbol of the nation's sacred spiritual traditions," had "escaped destruction."

B-29 crewmen who participated in the raid said the army and navy department and the diet buildings, as well as the palaces, probably were damaged, although none was a specific target.

A Tokyo broadcast said cabinet members conferred with sub-ministers and cabinet members to deliberate "upon air raid measures relative to the present air raid damages."

Tokyo's Ginza (government) and Marunouchi business districts were the prime targets of the latest attack. The Ginza district borders the imperial palace grounds.

Small factories producing vital precision instruments, machine tools and airplane parts were targets in the Marunouchi district. Most modern plants in the area was the Rikuo Engine Co., built by the Harley Davidson Co., a few years before the war.

The raid was the 24th on Tokyo.

RAIDS TO DWARF BLOWS AT REICH

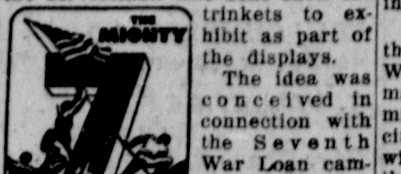

More Than Twice As Many Bombs Due To Hit Japan

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26—Japan, in the next year, will be the target of more than twice as many bombs as fell on Germany during the last 12 months.

House appropriations committee members made this disclosure today after a closed-door session with Gen. George C. Marshall. The chief of staff met with the committee Friday to lay the groundwork for the war department's appropriation bill for the fiscal year starting July 1.

"You can say that in the coming year, more than two and a half times as many tons of bombs will be dropped on Japan as the Allies dropped in Europe this (fiscal) year," Rep. J. Buell Snyder (D) of Pennsylvania told a reporter after the meeting. Rep. Snyder is chairman of the subcommittee considering army finances.

Other committee members said (Turn to RAIDS, Page 5)

War Bond headquarters appealed today for local residents whose sons have sent back trophies from the battlefields to lend the souvenirs to Bond officials for display in local store windows.

Guns, knives, shoulder patches, service insignia, helmets, belts, boots—anything that has been shipped back is wanted. Bond officials would like, too, to have pictures of the servicemen who sent back the trophies.

Contributions may be taken to the office of Francis P. White on West Sixth st. Mr. White, co-chairman of the county War Bond committee, and Patrick J. O'Farrell, city Bond chairman, will arrange with local merchants to display the souvenirs.

Bond sales today, at the conclusion of the first two weeks of the campaign, stood at $579,338. Friday's sales amounted to $24,523. The city's quota is $1,166,200, leaving $586,872 to be raised before the drive closes June 30.

SYRIAN CAPITAL REMAINS TENSE

Ill Feeling Between French And Natives Increases

By The Associated Press.
DAMASCUS, May 25—(Delayed)—Tense quiet prevailed during today's Moslem Sabbath in this capital city of Syria, where ill feeling between the French and Syrians threatens to explode into violence at any moment.

A report, which the French would not confirm, said another boatload of French or Senegalese troops is en route to Beyrouth in Lebanon. The British, fearful of repercussions in Palestine, Egypt and elsewhere in the Arab world, are trying to follow a hands-off policy, but pressure is being applied from both sides for the British to take action to settle the dispute.

Call For U.S. Action
Syrian and Lebanese leaders also are calling for action by the United States to back up official declarations favoring Syrian and Lebanese independence and official recognition.

Meanwhile, Syrian men between 18 and 60 are being conscripted into the home army by special parliamentary action. Funds have been voted to increase the nation's police forces by 5,000.

The root of the trouble is a disagreement over terms of a French offer of a treaty with the Levant states, which would replace the French mandate. Although the treaty has not been made public, Lebanese and Syrian officials declare that it is simply a new form of mandate, which would give the French permanent and strategic bases amounting to military control, a discriminatory economic position and a guarantee of the domination of French culture, particularly the French language.

Trouble arose when the French moved approximately 500 new Senegalese troops and 850 replacements into Lebanon, simultaneously with the Syrian and Lebanese refusal to sign the treaty.

The French decline to discuss the situation beyond asserting that the treaty in no way makes a demand incompatible with Syrian and Lebanese independence and that the movement of troops is comparable to the presence of British forces in both countries and the presence of United States forces in France. The French say they must have strategic bases as links to French Indo-China.

All Damascus shops are closed by a general strike, which was joined today by taxi and truck drivers, who offered their vehicles to the government. Some French families are leaving the city and others have moved into the main French barracks, although there has been no official evacuation.

For Reconditioning Wounded—

Red Cross Council To Assist In $15,000 Veterans' Project

Mrs. J. Donald Thompson, chairman of the Red Cross camp and hospital council here, said today that 28 councils in eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania have set up a $15,000 project to furnish and decorate the reconditioning center at New Castle, Pa., an annex of the Deshon Military hospital at Butler, Pa.

The reconditioning center is used for servicemen who have been in casts. Groups or individuals may turn in contributions to the Red Cross office in the Mary Patterson Memorial or to Mrs. Thompson.

The D. M. Ogilvie & Co. contributed $250 and Women of the Moose gave $50. The local chapter was assessed $100, making a total of $400 toward the center. The project was planned at a meeting Thursday in New Castle. Those attending from East Liverpool were Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Harry George Marshall, Mrs. June Watson, Mrs. Frank McNutt, Mrs. June Watkins, Mrs. Neil Shope and Mrs. Donald Gass.

Mrs. Thompson also reported that 15 fishing rods and reels also are needed. As they can't be purchased, she urged those who have extra ones to contribute them. The council also has been asked to supply a birthday gift each month for the hospital and another one for the hospital ship, St. Olaf. These gifts may be given in the name of an organization.

Gordon Laughlin, 918 Grant st., Newell, was fined $100 and costs today when he pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Frank E. Grosshans on a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol as the aftermath of an auto mishap early Friday afternoon.

Laughlin was arrested by Patrolman Clyde Boso at 1:30 p. m. after his auto collided at East Fourth and Washington sts. with a car driven by William C. Wolf, 931 West Sixth st., police reported. A tender on the Wolf car was damaged, police said.

A man identified as Stonewall Bowen, a passenger in Laughlin's car, forfeited a $16 bond when he failed to appear on an intoxication charge.

In another traffic case, Joshua Lawrence Beaver of Apples Corners was fined $25 and costs when he pleaded guilty before Judge Grosshans on a charge of reckless driving filed by Leonard Wiles of Irondale as the aftermath of a collision May 13 on the Y. & O. road near Rock Camp.

Mr. Wiles testified Beaver's auto crossed the center line of the highway and crashed into his auto, although he hit the guard rail in an effort to avoid a crash. Mr. Wiles said his car was damaged beyond repair.

The charge was filed by Everett B. Marshall, who said the boat he uses to travel between his home in Chester and the Hall China Co. in East End was stolen while tied on the Ohio side of the river near the city water works pumping and filtration plant.

Judge Grosshans suspended the 18-year-old's jail term on payment of the fine and costs and a promise of good behavior. The boys pleaded not guilty, testifying they found the boat adrift.

We've neglected our friends!

● Most of our advertising messages have been directed at people who, through carelessness or otherwise, don't always cooperate in their use of this essential wartime transportation service . . . It occurs to us that some might think we are unmindful of the great majority who do cooperate.

We know, of course, that most of you bus riders are "swell folks to do business with" . . . You cooperate in those many ways which help so much in providing better service for everyone . . . you have your fares or transfers ready . . . you move to the rear to make room for others . . . And more and more of you shoppers are coming downtown early so you can return home early—before the late afternoon "rush".

Yes, we talk a lot to the "non-cooperators", and seldom say anything to our friends! But we are aware of your cooperation . . . because it is that cooperation which enables us to maintain service under pretty difficult conditions. Please keep it up . . . and, thanks!

Rehabilitation in Washington

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has begun a major rehabilitation of the federal government. Thomas E. Dewey, it seems, won a moral victory last November.

Voters were aware even then, and became increasingly more so afterward, that government morale and efficiency were in a slump. Mr. Roosevelt was preoccupied with the war and foreign affairs. Democratic affairs were in the hands of subordinates, and the subordinates were in each other's hair.

Key figures were shuffled and reshuffled. Many left Washington in despair. The war could be blamed for some of the confusion, but the rest had to be blamed on the battle of the Potomac. Gov. Dewey's campaign charge that the Roosevelt administration had grown old, tired and quarrelsome in office was confirmed with each passing day.

When Mr. Roosevelt died and Mr. Truman succeeded him, changes were inevitable. The only question was the form they would take. Part of the answer is on the record.

The changes Mr. Truman has made and the improvements that promise to grow out of them were the Republicans' best talking point in 1944. Gov. Dewey made his bid on a platform of federal rehabilitation. He was defeated because a majority of the voters who made up their minds independently of party ties reasoned that rehabilitation of government was less important than retention of Mr. Roosevelt as an international negotiator and commander-in-chief.

Yet, six months later, Mr. Truman is doing exactly what Gov. Dewey proposed to do. International negotiation is in the hands of the department of state and military chiefs are conducting the war. Gov. Dewey may not have sold a majority of the people in his campaign last year but he obviously sold his idea to Harry S. Truman.

His cabinet is to be more geographically representative than the cabinet of his predecessor. The new attorney general, Thomas C. Clark, is from Texas, replacing Francis Biddle of Pennsylvania. Lewis B. Schwellenbach, new secretary of labor, is from Washington—the Pacific coast replacing Frances Perkins of New York. Clinton F. Anderson of New Mexico replaces Claude R. Wickard of Indiana as secretary of agriculture. The new postmaster general, Robert E. Hannegan of Missouri, replaces Frank C. Walker of Pennsylvania. Mr. Truman himself, of course, replaced a New Yorker—and his outstanding characteristic as chief executive promises to be his Middle Western viewpoint and way of doing things.

Four New Yorkers are still in the cabinet—Stettinius, Stimson, Forrester and Morgenthau. Their influence, insofar as it may be colored by regionalism, is balanced now by Middle Western and Far Western viewpoints.

The age of the new cabinet members, all of them 50 or under, will satisfy all requirements on that score. In political complexion, the new members are more progressive than conservative. But at the same time, being men who are expected to act and think on their own initiative, they are more likely to be independent than compliant.

Equally as significant as the changes of personnel, which already have gone beyond the front ranks of the cabinet, are Mr. Truman's proposals for reorganizing the executive department of the government. His administrative officers, responsible to the chief executive can look forward to a streamlined organization to administer. If congress will give him a vote of confidence, his chances of getting it are better than those of any recent chief executive; he begins his duties with perhaps more congressional confidence than any president since Warren G. Harding.

Secretary of State Stettinius already has taken steps to bring his department into line with modern needs. Here is one of the most heartening of all postwar prospects—that government may be better organized than before to do what the people expect it should be able to do.

Less Than Heroic

HENRICH HIMMLER's final act of destruction—his own life—ends one of Nazi Germany's bloodiest personal records of systematic murder. Among the brutalists who ruled Germany during Adolf Hitler's regime, Himmler achieved special distinction.

In him was brought to perfection the dark art of terror that became the chief reliance of German government in the hands of the political gangsters who flocked to Hitler's banner before and after 1933. He was the head executioner.

As head of the secret police in a police state, he held power equal to and perhaps greater than the power of Hitler himself. The final passages of the state's disintegration under Allied military pressure are obscure and probably will remain that way, but it is apparent that Himmler's authority at the last superseded that of the better-known madman who was his nominal superior.

The deaths of all the best-known German killers to date have been less than heroic, even for the purpose of the German propagandists who will make legends of them. But death has been certified in Himmler's case; it is satisfactory. The Allied war crimes commission could do no better.

These Days

The Jewish Problem

PERHAPS more than half of the Jews of Europe have been killed. Nobody has exact figures, but the estimates are high. The killing of Jews was deliberate and systematic. Whereas millions of soldiers were killed in this war in combat, Jews were killed without regard to combat.

Anti-Semitism is nothing new and has been practiced in most countries of Europe even to the point of pogroms and massacres. Early in this century, the worst pogroms occurred in Russia. Soviet Russia has awarded the Jews equal rights and full citizenship without racial or religious discrimination.

But as Soviet Russia, for at least 25 years, pursued a policy of godlessness (bezbozhnik), Jewish religious life largely has disappeared, intermarriage has been practiced freely and assimilation has become fashionable.

The Nazi hated the Jews on ideological grounds. No religious Jew could recognize Hitler as a man-god, nor could he recognize the supremacy of the state over moral law.

His difficulties were the same as those which faced Catholics, namely, that the dignity of man is a God-given grace and therefore man, as such, cannot be made a thing of the state.

In his attempt to establish the state, with himself at its apex, as a god on earth, Hitler came into immediate conflict with Jewish philosophy, which is based upon the Old Testament and in its current development is influenced by the teaching of Maimonides, who was a precursor of St. Thomas Aquinas. And undoubtedly, this philosophic clash of Judaism and Catholicism with Herr Rosenberg and Hitler made the Catholic partially, and the Jew particularly, hated objects to the Nazi. So they murdered Jews.

FOR nearly a quarter of a century, Jew-baiting has been continuous and intensive throughout Europe. The result is that a generation has been reared and educated to have fixations concerning the Jew, all of which are based upon the false premise that he is by nature different from other Europeans.

It is not a mere matter of likes or dislikes. It is not even a matter of discrimination. It is a belief that the Jews are an evil influence in European civilization and must be exterminated, even by murder.

The end of the war will not change any of this. It will take time to re-educate the younger Europeans. In fact, the inevitable in Europe during the next decade might even serve to intensify the antagonism toward the Jew.

Two views appear on this problem among the Jews themselves. One is a demand for full and equal rights everywhere, particularly the right of the Jew to live wherever he pleases.

That is sound doctrine up to a point. At present, nobody can live wherever he pleases in Europe. Peoples have been moved about the map like pawns on a chess-board and many will continue to be moved about as boundaries are fixed on a racial basis, which is no basis at all.

Secondly, the individual Jew who wants to get out a bad situation has no place to go. He is stuck. Therefore, no matter what provisions are made in a peace treaty, no matter what resolutions are passed at such a conference as San Francisco, nothing beneficial will come of it. And nobody will go to war over it.

THE other solution is Zionism, that is, the recognition of a Jewish homeland in Palestine—a practical solution except as it comes in conflict with newly-generated Arab nationalism and British policy toward the Moslem world.

Palestine can hold all the European Jews who will want or need to migrate to it and Jews are prepared to finance all its necessities. From that standpoint, it presents no major problems.

Politically, however, difficulties arise, particularly since President Roosevelt encouraged Arab nationalism by his financial support to Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia's part of an oil deal.

This is one of the most complex problems arising out of Hitlerite Germany and the war and, therefore, it generally is being dodged by all countries.

But it will continue to bother the world, as it has for centuries, unless it generally is agreed that the solution lies in killing off the remaining European Jews or in Zionism, which is the only antidote for it.

War Gems

By JACKSON S. ELLIOTT

WASHINGTON—Experiments of an Ohio research firm may turn out a cascade of "hen's eggs" rubies and blue, yellow or pink sapphires—at about a dollar a carat.

At the same time, the experiments may result in continuing in the United States an industry which was war-born to supplant the shattered gem sources of Europe. The Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, O., under a six-month contract with the office of production resources and development of the war production board, will tinkering with synthetic gems, concocted of powder and flame.

"Boules," or the original masses from which a gem or gems may be fashioned, have been produced thus far to a size of 300 to 400 carats, or about three-quarters of an inch diameter with a length of about 2 inches.

Such artificial gems defy detection, except under the expert eye of the jeweler; even then a microscope may be needed.

As for beauty, clarity, cut—they surpass the mined gem because they are flawless. Preference of milady for either the real or the synthetic will be determined by whether she loves the cost or loves the looks.

For synthetic sapphires and rubies, according to the Union Carbide & Carbon Corp., one of the leading manufacturers of the stones, aluminum oxide is purified and pigment added for color.

The aluminum oxide or "alumina" is fed into an oxy-acetylene flame and the fused material is deposited on a freclay pedestal in the form of a carrot-shaped mass, the boule.

Or the gem material may be developed in the shape of a rod, from which many individual stones can be sliced.

Before the war, the synthetic gem trade was centered in Switzerland. There was a demand for industrial jewels to be used as bearings on precision instruments, such as watches.

Families would augment their meager income by sitting through the long winter days and nights cutting and polishing the rough stones.

American labor could not compete. When the war struck, American industry was caught with scarcely enough industrial jewels to complete its precision instruments, of which there were thousands.

So the industry was reborn in the United States under the expert guidance of two European workmen, who were brought over to teach the secrets of the trade.

Advances were made in the technique and all sorts of uses were found for the products of the fire-formed gems for instance, pie gauges, hole gauges, furnace nozzles and many others.

Most of the gems now are going into bearings and other war uses, but with the war-end diminishing the factory need, there may be opportunity to develop in the United States an industry the possibilities of which barely have been uncovered.

This is the question into which the Battelle Institute is prying. It may revolutionize the jewel industry and re-dress American women.

Square Meals

By Truman Twill

A MISGUIDED Hoosier has posed in the pages of Time magazine that Sunday dinner be eliminated in the United States until Japan surrenders. This, he thinks, would relieve the food situation in Europe, because it would save 100,000,000 pounds of food a week.

That fellow wouldn't make such a crazy suggestion if he knew the truth about Sunday dinner, it is all that stands between millions of families and malnutrition between Saturday night and Monday morning. And not only that, Sunday dinner is sometimes the only real meal of the whole week during wartime. Or maybe things are different in Indiana.

We do not want to disillusion the gentleman from out there, but he needs to get around more to see what's cooking. We have looked into this Sunday eating situation closely and are prepared to tell him how it's handled. The fact is, most of us Americans are being jobbed out of some of our Sunday meals.

The jobbing starts with Sunday morning breakfast being skipped cause the sleeping-eating schedule gets disturbed. Late risers are given the dry cereal brush-off with a cup of warmed-over coffee. They are informed it won't be long until dinner. But as it turns out, dinner doesn't happen until the middle of the afternoon.

This gives the cook an excuse to scream: "Why you've just finished eating dinner!" when the customers begin to hint about supper.

And the upshot of the whole thing is they finally are ordered to eat what they can find, if anything, and it isn't until they get to bed that they realize they had only one meal all day Sunday.

If the gentleman from Indiana wants to save food, he will cut out the only really useless eating done in this country, which is the late-at-night snack consumed by visiting firemen whose eyes are bigger than their stomachs.

After polishing off a helping of baked beans, five assorted sandwiches, a slab of cake, a couple of chunks of cheese and a second cup of coffee, most of the firemen would be so glad to give up some surplus food for Europe they might start then and there.

Better yet, wait till about 4 a. m. when the fireman has wrestled tigers and dodged Japanese suicide planes zooming at him from the bedroom ceiling.

Not only would he sign a pledge never to overload before bedtime again, but would volunteer to go forth and preach the gospel of moderation in eating far and wide over the face of the earth, even unto Indiana where people dare to advocate giving up Sunday dinner. Anything but that. Even if it's only macaroni, it's all we have left.

Uncomfortable Perch

The Russian Riddle

By Mark Sullivan

WASHINGTON—Though not in an extended way, on the contrary with calm and in a spirit of objective interest and suspended judgment, Washington is dominated by thought about Russia.

Within the capital, and in news and comment that goes out over wires and air waves, more is said about Russia and the problems with which it is involved than about any other subject.

Virtually always, for brevity or other convenience, or in some cases through intellectual inexactness, it is referred to by a broad term—as "Russia," or the equivalent "Soviet Union," or again too loosely, the name that symbolizes it, "Stalin."

Yet the understanding for which America gropes only can be achieved by realizing that Russia is several things and has several facets, each of which impinges separately, and in some cases contradictorily, upon American concerns.

There is Russia as a country, in the ordinary sense. And there is Russia as an ideology, communism. About these two, we must, paradoxically, think of the two separately, yet recognize that to a large degree the two are one.

When Marshal Stalin demands that Poland must have a government friendly to Russia, we and Britain would not think of that as unreasonable—if Russia were a country in the ordinary sense, merely demanding that Poland have a government not disposed to make or facilitate war upon Russia.

Except that "demand" is an odd word to use about friendship—friendship is ordinarily won, not demanded. But we feel obliged to wonder whether Marshal Stalin means that the Polish government must be friendly to communism as an ideology.

Also, there is Russia as a government, and there is Russia as a people. Failure to distinguish between the two is a frequent confusion. When brevity says "Russia is suspicious of America", what is meant is that the Russian government, or Russian officials who conduct relations with America, seem to show suspicion.

Does any one suppose that the millions of Russian people, in remote villages, have an attitude of suspicion toward the millions of the American people, except, possibly, as suspicion may have been created in them by the Russian government through its control of press and radio?

When Russian soldiers met American soldiers in Germany, there was no suspicion. On the contrary there was spontaneous fraternity. But there was apparent disposition on the part of the Russian government to restrain association between the two, lest more fraternity arise than the Russian government desired.

Distinction between the Russian people as a people and as soldiers and, on the other hand, communism as a cult, was made by Winston Churchill when, upon the invasion of Russia by Hitler, Mr. Churchill announced that England would go to Russia's aid.

"No one has been a more consistent opponent of communism than I have for the last 25 years. I will unsay no words that I have spoken about it, but all that fades away. . . . I see the Russian soldiers standing on the threshold of their native lands and guarding fields which their fathers had tilled from time immemorial. I see them guarding homes. . . ."

AMONG many other aspects of what is called "Russia", an utterly new one is surmised. After the Russian government bitterly had fought religion for 25 years, after it long had had an official slogan, "religion is the opiate of the people", it now is fostering the old orthodox Russian church, historically called the Greek Catholic church.

Well-informed Dorothy Thompson says the purpose is political, to make influence and prestige for Russia in Balkan and Middle Eastern countries where the orthodox church is strong.

If we now must see Moscow as at once the capital of communism and the vatican of a religion, the difficulty of thinking clearly about the many things Russia is becomes difficult for the American people, strive they ever so earnestly to understand.

Until more light gives us a key, we will be obliged to continue to think of Russia as what Mr. Churchill described it in 1939, "a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma."

Surprise!

WASHINGTON—Surprise! Surprise! The White House has an air raid cellar.

It was built 50 feet under the east lawn right after Pearl Harbor and now that the Luftwaffe is kaput the thousands of sidewalk superintendents who watched its excavation can tell you all about it.

In those days the threat of air raids was real and the sidewalk superintendents never breathed a word about what was being done for the protection of the late President Roosevelt—except to their relatives and neighbors, of course, and to casual acquaintances. It was a carefully-guarded military secret until the censorship restrictions were relaxed.

The shelter was built in zigzag fashion. It has a "bomb-proof" ceiling about nine feet thick, made of concrete and reinforced steel.

It is reached by steps from the east wing of the White House and connects with a big vault under the treasury.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt used to retire to the shelter during air raid drills, or whether he ever even saw it, the secret service men are not saying.

The Goering Art Collection

TWO hundred million dollars worth of Marshal Goering's art "collection" is now in the hands of American troops. Art meant everything to Hermann. Between conferences on new terrorism campaigns he loved to study his Rembrandts. Nothing soothed him like Cezannes after sitting in on new plans for mass shootings.

Fatso was no piker collector. He collected by truck and freight. He thought there was no greater influence on art than a Panzer division. He liked oils, but he would take anything not chained to the walls. Hermann judged campaigns by the number of paintings captured. If he didn't get a half dozen masterpieces after the first 10 days of fighting, he thought the war was going badly. His slogan was: "We have met the enemy and his Titans are ours!"

Pvt. Oscar Purkey has wired us a list of some of the art treasures in the collection:

1.—Portrait of Superman Laying an Egg. (Executed by Eisenhower, the Elder and Montgomery, the Younger.)

2.—Air marshal in Search of Choice Viands. (Self-portrait by the owners. Done with stolen paints.)

3.—Humpty-Dumpty on the Down Beat. (After Von Hindenberg. Also after Kaiser Wilhelm.)

4.—Study of Golden Summer. (Fatso now will swap this for a promise of a healthy winter.)

5.—The Three Graces. (The marshal ordered eight blitzes to get this and was still unable to find their last names.)

6.—Still Life: A calendar, a tomato called Adolf and a letter bearing the words "Germany will rule the world for a thousand years." Signed at lower left "A. H. 1939".

7.—Three companion water colors: (1) The Conqueror; (2) The Awakening; (3) The Toboggan Slide. (Goering has just discovered the painter of these. Josef, the Elder.)

8.—Study of Lord and Lady Sir Audrey Winthrop-Whomever III and their children Tony and Mavis. By Sargent. (Fatso painted mistakes on all the characters and renamed this painting "Heir and Frau Schweitzerkoff and their children Max and Fritz.")

9.—Snow Scene by Van Gogh. (Valued at $500,000, but offered for sale by Goering for four marks after the first winter in Russia.)

10.—Still life study showing a dish of pigs feet, a seidel of beer and a program for world domination. (Early Hitler.)

11.—"The Banquet". A flawless painting of 45 people around the groaning board. The study of the host at extreme left following for more dark meat and some bicarb is thought to be one of the finest studies of a man ordering bicarb ever painted. (Slashed to ribbons by Goering because he did not think the artist had put in enough gravy.)

12.—Portrait of "A Man in Bed". German school, said to be of a Nazi field marshal. (Somebody has changed last word to make the title read "Study of a Man in Bed".)

13.—Still Life: A paste bucket with pretzels and swastika, with microphone in background upside down. (Early Schickelgruber. Gift of the painter to Hermann, who is sorry he ever saw the damned thing.)

Curtiss-Wright To Resume Sunday Night

Special To The Review.
BEAVER, May 26—The Curtiss-Wright Corp. propeller plant here will resume operations Sunday night rather than Monday at 8 a. m. at the expiration of five-day layoffs given employees early this week as a result of a work stoppage that tied up production, the firm said today.

The earlier resumption of operations was agreed upon late Friday in a conference of company officials with the officers of Local 2170, United Steelworkers of America, CIO. Production has been at a virtual standstill since Tuesday when the firm imposed five-day layoffs after what it termed unauthorized work stoppages by employees in the shank and edge finishing departments.

BOYS 'CHIP IN' TO PAY ON COMPANION'S FINE

After a 17-year-old boy was fined $25 and costs today in municipal court for driving with a learner's permit without being accompanied by a licensed driver, his two companions agreed to contribute equally in the payment of the $31 penalty.

Judge Frank E. Groshans also suspended the youth's learner permit. He dismissed charges of disturbing the peace against all three. They were arrested at 3:16 a. m. today on Park blvd. by Patrolmen Robert Pyle and Glenn G. Montgomery, who reported a case of beer with eight bottles consumed was found in the bar.

"We got into this together and we'll pay the consequences the same way," the boys told Judge Groshans as they agreed to share their friend's penalty.

TARIFF

iffs in reciprocal trade agreements with other nations.

Chairman Doughton (D) of North Carolina of the ways and means committee, author of the legislation, declared the vote will test this country's willingness "to participate in international co-operation or revert to a policy of economic and political isolationism."

Rep. Knutson (R) of Minnesota declared it would put American workers in competition with low-paid foreign labor, cause factories to close and create unemployment.

The measure would extend the reciprocal trade act for three years beyond the June 12 expiration date, with an amendment empowering the President to cut duties up to 50 per cent below the rates prevailing Jan. 1, 1945.

Under the present law the President may trim tariffs, in exchange for concessions by other countries, up to 50 per cent under the rates stipulated in the last Republican tariff act, the Hawley-Smoot act of 1930.

Republicans prepared amendment proposals to:

- 1.—Limit the extension to a year instead of three and strike out the section permitting tariff cuts up to 50 per cent of the Jan. 1, 1945 rates.

- 2.—Write in a stipulation that no duty shall be cut to a level below the difference in the cost of production of a specific item in this country and the cost of producing the competing item in a foreign country.

- 3.—Provide a review by the joint chiefs of staff of war-needed scarce materials, with the view of setting up an import quota system to protect domestic producers of such materials.

- 4.—Give the senate veto power over any negotiated trade treaty.
- 5.—Knock out of the "most favored nations" clause, which gives all nations the advantages of duty reductions in agreements made with any one nation.

- 6.—Provide a right of court review for any person claiming to be injured by operation of the reciprocal trade program.

THEFT

Railroad Co. detectives, Chief Hugh J. McDermott said.

They admitted breaking into the two cars Wednesday night at the siding at the railroad company's freight office on East Second st. Partially unloaded, the cars were sealed for the night and were to be emptied the following day, the railroad company said.

About a dozen cartons of the cigarettes—all of one popular brand—were recovered after the boys led police to the Delray alley district where they were buried. Most of the other loot had been eaten or thrown away, the boys told police.

When Judge Grosshans learned police had listed the names of several men who bought the stolen cigarettes, he asked they be arrested and charged with receiving stolen property and possibly with contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Police said two ringleaders of the boys' gang each received 15 cartons of cigarettes, while another had eight. Three younger boys each got a carton as their share, police said.

MILWAUKEE FATTENS AA LEAD ON IDLE DAY

By The Associated Press.
The Milwaukee Brewers held a half game lead in the American Association today because of a helpful push from the weatherman.

While the Brewers and Columbus were rained out, Louisville lost an opportunity to take over the top spot by losing to Minneapolis last night. The Millers' leading pitcher, Isadora Leon, blanked the second place Colonels on five scattered hits while his mates gave him seven runs. The win was Leon's fifth against one defeat.

St. Paul, with home runs by Howie Schultz and Tommy Brown, defeated third place Indianapolis, 5-4. The Indians held a 2-to-1 advantage before the Saints scored four unearned runs in the seventh.

Kansas City's Blues took their third straight from Toledo, 9-2, giving young Edson Bahr his third win of the season. The game was called after six and one-half innings to permit the Mud Hens to catch a train for Milwaukee.

ROCKY GRAZIANO AKRON EAST'S SPEEDSTER, PROBABLE DOWNFALL TO MEET CHAMP OF EAST TECH DRAW SPOTLIGHT IN TRACK MEET

New Yorker TKO's Davis In Fourth; Faces Cochran

220 In 21.8 In Trials; Warren Is Darkhorse

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 26 — Rocky Graziano started training today to meet Welterweight Champion Freddie "Red" Cochran in a non-title bout June 29, having earned the chance by virtue of a four-round technical knockout of Brooklyn's Al "Bummy" Davis in a punch-filled brawl at Madison Square Garden.

Graziano, New York slugger, gained his decision over Davis last night after Bummy hit the deck with a right to the jaw after the bell rang ending the third round. A crowd of 16,556 saw Referee Arthur (Young Otto) Susskind stop the scrap after 44 seconds of the fourth stanza.

Graziano, apparently not hearing the gong ending the third round, had smashed home a lethal right that made Bummy hit the deck full length. Davis had to be dragged to his corner, but he was revived in time to come out for the fourth, but went down for nine as Rocky swarmed over him. He got up weak-kneed and Rocky had started to work on him again when the referee halted it.

Bummy weighed 146 to the New Yorker's 151.

The Class B picture was as muddled as ever. Clyde led yesterday in the number of qualifiers with three, but Lockland and the defending champs from Orange seemed to be in just as good shape.

Ivan Wallington of Mansfield was the fastest Class A qualifier in the 120-yard high hurdles (14.9 seconds) and he also won his heat in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Warren Squad Darkhorse
A dark horse team from Warren also popped into the picture with qualifiers in the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and 440-yard dash.

The biggest surprise yesterday was the failure of Rocky River's Pat McCormick to qualify in the 120-yard high hurdles. He hadn't lost a hurdle race all year until he finished third in the first heat of that event and then went to the sidelines by winding up fourth in his semi-final. He rallied, however, to turn in the fastest time over the low sticks.

Yesterday's qualifiers included: Class B 100-yard dash—Light Sulphur Springs; Boos, Beaver Creek; Richards, Leavittsburg; Wood, Clyde; Wulf, Reading; Kenat, Bay Village; Kuntz, Lockland; Lach, Amherst. Best time, 10.3 seconds by Light.

Class A 100-yard dash—Johnson, Columbus East; Gruber, Cincinnati St. Xavier; Wallace, Lakewood; Wade, Glenview; Jackson, Akron East; Afzal, Cleveland East Tech; Williams, Warren; Baynard, Col. of the athletic department, or for any general or field secretaries of the alumni associations to approach athletes with the purpose to persuade them to attend any university for the purpose of engaging in athletics.

Final draft of the legislation was made by H. O. "Fritz" Crisler, Michigan athletic director, and Frank Richard, faculty representative at Illinois.

Schools will be allowed to provide jobs for athletes to give them an opportunity to pay expenses, but the jobs must be necessary for the upkeep of the school.

Coaches can discuss advantages of their schools with prospective athletes provided they do not make trips to the athlete's home, nor pay his expenses to visit the institution for such purpose.

Class B 220-yard dash—Light Sulphur Springs; Osborne, Malta-McConnellsville; Wulf, Reading; Jones, Worthington; Kuntz, Lockland; Richards, Leavittsburg; Kenat, Bay Village; Wood, Clyde. Best time, 22.6 seconds by Kuntz.

Class A 220-yard dash—Johnson, Columbus North; Taylor, Parma. Corbin, Warren; Verdoya, Lakewood; Jackson, Akron East; Afzal, Cleveland East Tech; Moorehead, Columbus North; Taylor, Parma. Best time 21.8 seconds by Jackson.

Class B 220-yard low hurdles—Anthony, Plainville; Mesmer, Springfield township; Davis, Poland; Harvot, Orange; Ahonen, Fairport Harbor; Wood, Clyde. Best time, 26.1 seconds by Anthony.

Class A 220-yard low hurdles—McCormick, Rocky River; Schaefer, Columbus North; Lewis, Columbus Bexley; Smithy, Akron North; Wallington, Mansfield; Carter, Cleveland Central; Smithy, Akron North. Best time, 14.9 seconds by Wallington.

220 B. Qualifiers

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 26—It costs Penn State college somewhere around $2,000 each year to stage the various state championship high school athletic tournaments. Some 500 kids are here today for the track, golf and tennis tournaments and in normal times the college puts them up at fraternity houses, besides footing the bills for operations. The teams pay their own travel expenses. Still, it probably is cheaper in the long run than maintaining the elaborate scouting system some colleges have to see that the best athletes don't stray to other states—or to persuade them to do a little stray.

Weir High of Weirton advanced to the semi-finals when Steve Dishauz pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Trap Hill as the Riders won, 1-0.

DELANEY'S HIT IN 7TH ONLY SAFETY OFF JIM

Leads Nine-Hit Attack On Smith As Lodgemen Capture Fourth Straight; Red Sox Meet Salem Nine Sunday

Big Jim Proctor came within the proverbial whisker of entering the City league's baseball hall of fame Friday when he flipped a one-hitter as the loop-leading Elks blanked the champion Riverview Florists, 8-0, for their fourth straight triumph.

The Elks right hander was invincible until the seventh when Ron Delaney, first to face him, slashed a single between first and second to rob him of a perfect game. The victory was Proctor's second over the champs and the third of the season.

In the fourth Fred Burton opened with a base hit. He advanced on Wagner's sacrifice and scored on Dick Proctor's base hit. Dick then scored on brother Jim's second hit.

Junior Burton and Bob Ward nipped Smith for successive hits at the outset of the big fifth and then worked a double steal. Watson muffed Fred Burton's roller to load the sacks.

Wagner fanned and was out automatically, but Doherty, Riverview catcher, who dropped the third strike, made a play for Wagner at first. The peg was bad and J. Burton romped home. Ward scored when Watson kicked Logston's bounder. Logston took second unmolested, and Jim Proctor got his third straight hit to plate F. Burton and Logston.

With two down in the seventh, Wagner walked, stole second and came all the way home on a passed ball.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 26—

One probable explanation for the continued existence of black markets is revealed in a public opinion survey just completed by the Institute from coast to coast.

Approximately one civilian in five, the poll shows, believes that there are times when buying in the black market is justified. In terms of the adult population, this amounts to a good many million people.

The vote:

"Do you think that buying at black market prices is sometimes justified?"

Not justified 21%

No opinion 5

It was found that more men than women think black market buying is justified at times, as the following shows:

Men Women

Sometimes justified 23% 18%

Not justified 71 77

No opinion 6 5

The poll found no significant differences, by size of community, on the issue of whether black market buying is justified.

Airman Asks Winged Shoe At Liberation

By GEORGE TUCKER Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS—Two years is a long time for a fighting man to go without a boost in rank, but then Lt. Maurice Kurt (Ace) Langberg of Jensen Beach, Fla., has not done much fighting in the last two years.

He wandered into the Scribe hotel here the other night after two years in a Nazi concentration camp at Sagan. He was crying: "Lemme have some more of that war."

Long ago in the red sands around Kalroun, and twice later in and near Tunis, he was shot down after ignoring orders not to break formation and chasing after Germans singlehandedly. Twice he was picked up by Arabs and turned over to the Italians. The third time he was handed over to the Germans, but escaped.

They got him again and took him to Italy and then to Germany. "You get barber-wire neurosis if you are at that wire too much," Lt. Langberg said. So to avoid that, he escaped three times. He never succeeded in getting out of Germany, however, and on the last escape was caught by the Gestapo.

WHEN Lt. Langberg wandered into the Scribe, he spied Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher and made a beeline for him. They are old friends.

They had been on the invasion of North Africa together. That was after the restless, sandy-haired Floridian resigned his job as aide to Gen. A. J. Jones and bulled his way into a Spitfire squadron. Gen. Jones is now dead.

Up in our rooms, we all wanted to know if there was anything we could do for Lt. Langberg. "Anything you want?" Mr. Gallagher asked.

"Sure," Lt. Langberg replied. "I've got a winged shoe coming to me. I belong to the Winged Shoe club. I want to know where I can find out about it."

The Winged Shoe club was formed by fighter pilots in Africa. Membership is limited to pilots who were shot down and walked home under their own power.

"The second time they got me, I qualified," Lt. Langberg explained. "I walked back."

SOME time before Mr. Gallagher had written Lt. Langberg's story, for the newspapers, and in his book, Back Door in Berlin. In it he said "when I first wrote this little bit on Langberg I concluded with 'if the war last long enough, Langberg undoubtedly will be an ace in face as well as a nickname—or dead'."

"Late in April (1943) I received word that Langberg again had broken formation to go after two German planes by himself. This time he was never heard of again."

Nor had he been heard from—until he bobbed up in the Scribe screaming: "Gimme that winged shoe. And gimme some more of that war!"

If he can get into the China-India-Burma theater, Lt. Langberg says he can build up his total of enemy planes shot down, which stopped at four when the Germans got him.

And he also can do something about those lieutenant's bars.

PRIORITIES ALLOWED CAR MANUFACTURERS

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26 — In a rush of preparation for passenger car production, automobile and automotive parts, manufacturers have asked and obtained priority for $104,208,000 worth of construction and plant equipment.

The war production board, which made this announcement Friday, earlier notified the industry that it could make 200,000 cars this year "if it can obtain the materials."

The industry's requests for machine tools, equipment and plant expansion exceed that of all other industries combined by a wide margin and are swollen by an additional $1,529,000 from other manufacturers largely dependent on the automotive industry—makers of batteries, electrical equipment and fittings, steel springs and steel tubing.

YANKS FIND MILLION HIDDEN BY HIMMLER

By The United Press. PARIS, May 26 — U. S. troops in Berchtesgaden have unearthed Heinrich Himmler's currency hoard—valued at around $1,000,000—two days after the Gestapo chief committed suicide.

It contained the currency of 26 countries, but none from America. The hoard was discovered under a barn near Berchtesgaden by American officers.

They were led to the cache by Waffen SS Lt. Gen. Berger, who said he had hidden the money there on Himmler's orders, although the money belonged to the Reich.

Heads Chile Naval Mission

WASHINGTON, May 26—Rear Adm. H. Mayfield has been named head of the newly-authorized naval mission to Chile, the navy announced Friday.

Airman Asks Winged Shoe At Liberation

By GEORGE TUCKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS—Two years is a long time for a fighting man to go without a boost in rank, but then Lt. Maurice Kurt (Ace) Langberg of Jensen Beach, Fla., has not done much fighting in the last two years.

He wandered into the Scribe hotel here the other night after two years in a Nazi concentration camp at Sagan. He was crying: "Lemme have some more of that war."

Long ago in the red sands around Kairouan, and twice later in and near Tunis, he was shot down after ignoring orders not to break formation and chasing after Germans singlehandedly. Twice he was picked up by Arabs and turned over to the Italians. The third time he was handed over to the Germans, but escaped.

They got him again and took him to Italy and then to Germany. "You get barbed-wire neurosis if you stare at that wire too much," Lt. Langberg said. So to avoid that, he escaped three times. He never succeeded in getting out of Germany, however, and on the last escape was caught by the Gestapo.

When Lt. Langberg wandered into the Scribe, he spied Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher and made a beeline for him. They are old friends.

They had been on the invasion of North Africa together. That was after the restless, sandyhaired Floridian resigned his job as aide to Gen. A. J. Jones and bulled his way into a Spitfire squadron. Gen. Jones is now dead.

Up in our rooms, we all wanted to know if there was anything we could do for Lt. Langberg. "Anything you want?" Mr. Gallagher asked.

"Sure," Lt. Langberg replied. "I've got a winged shoe coming to me. I belong to the Winged Shoe club. I want to know where I can find out about it."

The Winged Shoe club was formed by fighter pilots in Africa. Membership is limited to pilots who were shot down and walked home under their own power.

"The second time they got me, I qualified," Lt. Langberg explained. "I walked back."

SOME time before Mr. Gallagher had written Lt. Langberg's story, for the newspapers, and in his book, "Back Door to Berlin." In it he said "when I first wrote this little bit on Langberg I concluded with 'if the war last long enough, Langberg undoubtedly will be an ace in face as well as nickname—or dead'."

"Late in April (1943) I received word that Langberg again had broken formation to go after two German planes by himself. This time he was never heard of again."

Nor had he been heard from—until he hopped up in the Scribe screaming: "Gimme that winged shoe. And gimme some more of that war!"

If he can get into the China-India-Burma theater, Lt. Langberg says he can build up his total of enemy planes shot down, which stopped at four when the Germans got him.

And he also can do something about those lieutenant's bars.

PRIORITIES ALLOWED CAR MANUFACTURERS

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 26—In a rush of preparation for passenger car production, automobile and automotive parts manufacturers have asked and obtained priority for $104,209,000 worth of construction and plant equipment.

The war production board, which made this announcement Friday, earlier notified the industry that it could make 200,000 cars this year "if it can obtain the materials."

The industry's requests for machine tools, equipment and plant expansion exceed that of all other industries combined by a wide margin and are swollen by an additional $152,000 from other manufacturers largely dependent on the automotive industry—makers of batteries, electrical equipment and fittings, steel springs and steel tubing.

YANKS FIND MILLION HIDDEN BY HIMMLER

By The United Press.

PARIS, May 26—U. S. troops in Berchtesgaden have unearthed Heinrich Himmler's currency hoard—valued at around $1,000,000—two days after the Gestapo chief committed suicide.

It contained the currency of 26 countries, but none from America. The hoard was discovered under a barn near Berchtesgaden by American officers.

They were led to the cache by Waffen SS Lt. Gen. Berger, who said he had hidden the money there on Himmler's orders, although the money belonged to the Reich.

Heads Chile Naval Mission

WASHINGTON, May 26—Rear Adm. H. Mayfield has been named head of the newly authorized naval mission to Chile, the navy announced Friday.

VICTORY GARDEN INCREASE URGED

President Places Stress On Food Shortage In Plea

By The Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26—President Truman laid new stress on the ever-tightening food shortage Friday by giving White House backing to an intensive campaign for home growing and preserving.

A special division for home food supply, headed by Paul C. Stark of Louisiana, Mo., was set up in the war food administration.

The White House announcement, which urged citizens to increase their Victory Garden efforts and called for preserving "as important as production," came just after a congressional food investigator had reported plans for a deep cut in industrial sugar supplies.

Mr. Truman announced that Mr. Stark's office will coordinate the work of all government agencies concerned with the food industry "produced or conserved in the home."

A White House statement added: "The need for maximum effort in home food production and conservation is emphasized by the severe damage to food crops, especially vegetables and fruits, resulting from extremely unfavorable weather of recent weeks. Excessive and continued rains also seriously have delayed planting and growth of garden and farm crops."

Charles McMillan, a 12-year-old sharpshooter from McKinley school, reigned today as East Liverpool's 1945 marble king. Charles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McMillan, 1008 Bradshaw ave., emerged as the winner in a field of 13 school champions who appeared in the championship finals Friday night in the gymnasium of the Y.M.C.A., which sponsors the annual grade school tournament.

His opponent in the finals was Kenneth Brophy from St. Aloysius school, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brophy of Shadyside ave. By an agreement between the boys, the championship match was best two out of three, instead of three out of five as originally scheduled.

In the third and deciding game, the score saw-sawed back and fourth until each boy had six marbles apiece and stood deadlocked. McMillan finally connected for the seventh, winning 7-6.

For his work, McMillan won the championship trophy. Brophy, as runner-up, received an award of War Stamps.

In the opening round of play, James Dotson of Chester Central, William Jarrett of Horace Mann and Brophy won byes. Carl Mays

'Suspensions' Seen Behind French Troubles

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press War Analyst

I HAVE received a letter from an old friend, Col. Bernard LaPorte, now a member of the French delegation to the United Nations security conference at San Francisco. Perhaps you will be interested in my purely personal reply:

"It's grand to see France back on her feet and playing her part in this historic conference, which means so much to humanity. It must be a vast satisfaction to you to be serving your country in this capacity, after fighting for her in those tragic days of the German triumph and then continuing the bitter struggle as an exile in the ranks of the unconquerable De Gaulle. And it's gratifying to your friends, who also are Mr. Mackenzie France's friends, that things have worked out so well. What makes me particularly happy, Bernard, is to see President Truman extend, and Gen. De Gaulle accept, an invitation to a conference between these two statesmen. That meeting is needed badly, for things haven't been as happy as they ought to be between La Belle France and some of her allies.

"The original differences between Gen. De Gaulle and the Anglo-American team struck me as being partly due to a clash of personalities, but very largely to mutual suspicions. Nasty things suspicious! When I was in London in '42, it was said that some folk were afraid De Gaulle had personal ambitions. And the general for his part was said to have fair grounds for thinking an effort was being made to smother him.

"OUT of this has grown 'incidents' and bitterness. I have the feeling that suspicions—most of which have little or no foundation—are the basis for most of the recent difficulties. France, still suffering from the terrible blow she sustained in the war, fears that she has lost her place in the councils of the mighty. Well, she hasn't lost her place, but one can regard her feelings with sympathetic understanding.

"One can understand, too, her inclination to try to protect her interests. Undoubtedly the other allies could have made matters easier if they had devoted more energy to the project.

"Certainly it would have been well if circumstances had been such France wouldn't have felt it necessary to take such protective measures as the occupation of Italian territory around Aosta, or the more recent move to maintain her prestige in Syria and Lebanon. Mind you, I'm not criticizing France for these developments, but merely am pointing out that it's unfortunate the major allies hadn't got together so that such unilateral action wouldn't have been considered necessary.

"So it's good to see Gen. De Gaulle and President Truman preparing to get together. That meeting can eliminate the differences entirely by ironing out those 'suspicions'. France must be convinced that the other allies aren't trying to pull the rug out from under her feet.

"France has a mighty part to play in the regeneration of Europe. We hope, by the way, that you folk out in San Francisco are forging a real peace. Don't let it get away from us this time as it did at Versailles, where you and I saw the present war get its start."
